IMPACT PROFILE

I have provided advice, training and research reports to large and small companies, as well as to UK government and UK, EU and US law enforcement organisations. Some of these reports have explicated the relevance of current psychological science for policy and practice (e.g., please contact me for examples). Other reports have responded to an operational or strategic need. I have provided independent research-based evaluations, provided consultancy on work initiatives, and provided advice to policy committees and criminal investigations. These activities have led to extensive collaborations in the UK and in North America. The activities also underpin case studies developed and submitted during the UK REF2014 process.

ADMINISTRATIVE EXPERIENCE

University administration

2015- Director of the Centre for Research and Evidence on Security Threats (CREST). The Centre champions the activities of 93 academic, post-doc and PhD researchers in 5 core programmes and 10 commissioned projects (increasing to ~20 in 2017). Adjunct to this are 9 professional staff who produce communication outputs, oversee media relations, manage an international stakeholder engagement programme, and deliver the centre's governance and administration. CREST serves as the national hub for behavioural and social science research for the UK security and intelligence agencies.

2015 Faculty of Science representative on University Research Ethics Committee

2011- Director of Security Lancaster. This cross-faculty centre is being considered for Institute status at an upcoming Senate. My contributions include working with Dr Prince on strategic relationships (e.g., Raytheon partnership), extending our international connectivity (e.g., with MIT), and running the ECR focused small grant scheme, seminar series, and annual cyber security challenge. In AY14/15, Security-Lancaster published 111 international peer reviewed articles, secured

£7.44M of funding, and it grew the PGR community by 20 students, largely through industry funding.

- 2009- Psychology representative on Faculty's Business and industrial relations committee
- 2005-2006 Faculty of Science and Engineering Joint Information Services Committee representative for psychology (Liverpool)
- 2004-2005 Tutor for University Halls accommodation. Provided pastoral care for 1yr UG in accommodation and contribute to site administration

Department administration

- 2016- Director of Research, Department of Psychology
- 2014-2015 Leader of the Department's Social Processes research group
- 2010-2015 Department's business and enterprise 'champion,' member of Research Committee, and coordinator of mock REF2014 impact submission
- 2011- Coordinator of Department's HEIF-5 funding
- 2009-2013 Director of the Department's Investigative Expertise Unit (core research group)
- 2009- Member of Department's research committee and management group
- 2008-2011 Director of MSc in Investigative Expertise (intake ~14FTE)
- 2006-2008 Director of the MSc in Research Methods (ESRC-recognised; intake ~12FTE)
- 2005-2006 Library and resources liaison for psychology (Liverpool)
- 2004-2006 First Year UG Studies Coordinator (Liverpool). Encompassed full-time BSc courses, BSc/BA combined honours, and a 2+2 pathway
